DISCOUNT TO THE TRADE
1 or 2 of a kind, 25%
3 or more of a kind, 33 1/3%

Best grade dahlia tubers, grown under natural conditions, not forced with a lot of fertilizer, will do well anywhere dahlias can be grown at all.

Roots can be sent any time the weather is not too cold, but they should not be sent until you are ready for them, as they should not be exposed to drying air for any length of time. Please mention shipping date, we will send any time till June 1st, but get your order in early if possible.

Do not order from an old list, this list cancels all previous list and prices. All roots sent out are guaranteed to be in good growing condition and true to name.

Initials immediately following the name of variety indicate the type of bloom, as follows: F.D., formal decorative; I.D., informal decorative; S.C., semi cactus; C., cactus; Miniature, small flowering; Pompon, button type. The figure following these initials is the approximate size in diameter, without disbudding.

Dahlia Culture

If you follow these few simple rules you should have no trouble growing good dahlias.

Place Tubers about 4 to 6 inches deep and about 3 feet apart in well worked soil, laying tuber down, not on end.

Keep top soil loose, especially after each rain.

Water only in dry weather, then soak well, do not sprinkle a little each day. Do not plant in dense shade as dahlias like plenty of sunshine. After the plants are well established and of good size just stir the top soil, as deep cultivation will damage feeder roots.

Pests

For insects that appear on the plant during the growing season, use DDT or NICOTINE.

For insects that feed on the blooms, spray with a mixture of one teaspoon of PARIS GREEN to one gallon of water, keep stirred well.

Your County agent will be glad to help you with these problems.

Storage

After killing frost dig roots carefully, cut the tops off about 1 or 2 inches from the clump, let them dry in the air for a few hours if possible, then store in a cool damp cellar where they will not freeze, store with the stem part down if possible, this reduces stem rot.

If your cellar is too dry you may store them in a box and cover them with peat moss, sand, or dry soil.

Inspect them through the winter for rot, if rot appears cut it out and dust with dry sulphur.

Clumps can be separated any time through the Winter or Spring, leaving a portion of the stem or neck with each division, one single root is as good as several. The tops do not have to be removed as soon as the frost hits, they can be cut off as roots are dug.

Wishing you a successful dahlia season,
